

MA in Contemporary Music Practices

Grounded in cutting-edge academic and creative research, our innovative MA in Contemporary Music Practices positions students at the forefront of scholarly exploration and artistry. Collaborating with the Department's team of internationally renowned composers and scholars, students explore a core curriculum that focuses on honing practical, creative and research skills. This is complemented by a diverse range of electives that cater to individual specialisation in composition, performance, or music technology, or equally allow students to maintain a more diverse programme of study relevant to their practice.
