Planning your next step

Generating career options

Starting out you might have

- No clear idea
- Some idea
- Several options
- Clear idea

Come to us at each/any stage in this process

Key messages

- Don't be afraid to change your mind – pushing through is not always best – deciding to change course can be the most courageous option
- Grades are important going forward
- Choosing a subject solely because there are jobs in that area or because it will look good on your CV is not always wise
- Choose subjects that you like and are interested in – will likely do better

Subject Choice... good to know

- Graduate recruiters actively engage with us each year seeking to recruit students
 - Summer Internships
 - Accredited Placements/Internships
 - Graduate Programmes/job
- For many organisations, there is more interest in degree standard and evidence of continuous learning/self development than specific degree subject(s)
- Recruitment cycles begin early in final year (for graduate roles)
- Opportunities to “UpSkill” and develop future focused and work-related skills will be available from first year onwards

Follow interest rather than trying to predict what an employer will want
